HELPFUL TIPS

- Record pet's microchip/tattoo and license numbers. Store with their medical records in your important document file with your emergency kit
- Label all containers with pet names and your contact information
- As many items as possible should be packed in a grab and go kit.
- Have an emergency plan for all animals and move challenging animals such as birds, fish, or exotic animals as soon as possible
- If you have an animals that cannot be moved such as a large aquarium, create a sign describing the animals left on the property with your name and contact information ahead of time. Affix to your door to alert rescue officials.
- While in storage, rotate pet food and water every 3 months, replace medications as advised by your vet.
