HELP PREVENT MAIL & IDENTITY THEFT

Mail theft may not be something you think about, until it happens to you!

In many cases, stealing mail is just a means to the more serious crime of identity theft, particularly this time of year when tax forms contain sensitive personal information. Once the mail is stolen, suspects use the information obtained to build a personal online profile and commit identity theft and fraud.

Here are some important steps you can take to protect against mail theft:

- Pick up your mail daily.
- Redirect your mail if you're planning to be away.
- Never leave your keys or building fob unattended.
- Do not let anyone into your building that you don't recognize.
- Remember to wait for the parking garage door to close behind you.
